Villa Monty Banks

Italian Holiday

Villa Monty Banks, a farm house in category 5 sunflowers, owes its name to the actor, director and dancer from Cesena Mario Bianchi, who became famous in the early '900 with the name of Monty Banks in America in silent cinema.

The Villa was born as a holiday home. It was Monty Banks, together with his wife Gracie Fields, who chose it to create a home for rest and relaxation in Romagna.

It rises in the first hills that surround the city of Cesena to the south, rising on a Belvedere in a strategic and panoramic position near the city center, a short distance from the sea and the hill.

The Villa is surrounded by a lush park characterized by a row of cypress trees that punctuates the perimeter

The property offers 11 rooms in Deco-contemporary style, located on the first and second floor of the Villa, including two Suites, one of these with Private SPA on the inside, gourmet restaurant and a SPA by EFFE with Wellness by Technogym.

The conservative restoration carried out in 2019, conducted following a historical-architectural investigation, has allowed to enhance the special elements of a unique villa for the context in which it is located. The interiors are decorated with natural materials such as marble and wood, and colors in harmony with those of nature that comes overwhelmingly from the large windows, 79 to be exact, which give brightness to each room.

Villa Monty Banks is the place of the Italian holiday, where the scenography of the countryside meets the search for beauty and taste: art objects and design pieces, a collection of bonsai, enrich the guest's experience that will find pleasure in every detail.

All rooms are equipped with large windows that allow a continuous dialogue between the colors of nature outside and those of the interior. The bathrooms are completely covered with white calacatta marble and alpine green. In most rooms there is the original light oak parquet of the time.

The eleven rooms are characterized by generous sizes and served by equally large bathrooms. Each bathroom is distinguished in shape and internal distribution, both dictated by the complex composition of the rooms. A series of unique environments, multiform and intriguing in their use. A special care has been dedicated to the showers that have generous sizes, almost spa.

The rooms are of three types: Superior, Deluxe, Suite and a Family Room, which includes two adjacent rooms and an entire wing of the Villa dedicated to family holidays.

Inside the Villa there are two large Suites.

The Wellness Suite extends over 40 square meters, with Private Sauna by EFFE positioned in the center of the room and conceived as a glass and wood case. The bed is placed with the headboard resting on a fifth of mirrors on which the sauna is inserted.

The Home Suite also extends over 40 square meters, with separate living area, houses one of the three marble fireplaces in the villa, which from the ground floor has been dismantled and reassembled in the new environment where its massive grandeur explodes in an unprecedented power.
