

ALMOST FAMOUS

Almost Famous is a young audiovisual production company that deals with the creation of film and television projects, as well as advertising, music and web projects. It guarantees original and high quality products at every stage of the construction process of the work: from the first phase of organization and preparation, during shooting, to the final post-production completion of the project. A particular strength of the company is the creative part, which ranges from subjects and scripts of cinematographic and narrative works, to the creation of original soundtracks. She is also particularly active with regard to the creation of directing, creative writing and acting workshops.

Its main mission is to create, support and promote quality cinematographic and television works, characterized by attention to detail that can bridge the gap between independent low-budget cinema and the most successful national and international productions. His first work "Famous in 7 days", has obtained recognition in various national and international festivals, currently on Netflix. A thriller entitled 'L'Orafo' is out, with Giuseppe Pambieri and Stefania Casini, as well as short films and other projects in development.

The company is made up of:

Manuela De Tommaso- Producer

Germano Tarricone - Executive Producer and screenwriter

Gianluca Vannucci- Actor and director

Mike Cimini- Actor and director

Alexander Cimini- Composer and director

Andrea Porti- Actor
