At the threshold of 28 years, he decides to embark on a creative professional path, leveraging the soft skills acquired during his engineering studies combined with an innate pursuit of detail and functional and aesthetic perfection.

Through a process of self-education, parallel to his initial independent productions, he delves into the realm of color grading, earning the qualification of Blackmagic Design Certified Trainer. Subsequently, he expands his expertise to encompass the role of Director of Photography. Currently, he collaborates as a DP and Colorist for the production of commercials, short films, music videos, and documentaries. He alternates between intrinsic studies of light and a continuous experimental exploration of its manipulation, aiming to achieve a "Verisimilitude" capable of immersing the viewer within the narrative.
