About Challenges

I like challenges, because is where I find myself, a situation that makes me realize that I have limits, so I like to know how much I can push myself. I really appreciate when I grow up in knowledge and skills through the challenges that I encounter, together with people who I find myself with in those circumstances.

About my personality at work:

My outgoing and enterprising character allows me to have excellent communication and involvement skills, as well as a predisposition to team work.
